

Simple Notepad Program

This is a simple notepad program, made using C programming language. To write this program, I have used structure and file. A user can simply add his notes in this program. For displaying all notes, I used file to save notes. So that, I can display all notes that user added previously. For adding a note, user need to input title of his note and description. Then his title and description will be appended in the file. And will print all information.

Delete operation also can be added in this program but I also tried to make this program as simple as possible. So, I didn't add this.

Thanks,
